New Journal: Archaeological Research in Asia

Editor-in-Chief

Robert L. Bettinger
University of California,
Davis, USA

Archaeological Research in Asia presents high quality scholarly research conducted between the Bosphorus and the Pacific on a broad range of archaeological subjects of importance to audiences across Asia and around the world. The journal covers the traditional components of archaeology: placing events and patterns in time and space; analysis of past lifeways; and explanations for cultural processes and change.

OPEN ACCESS OPTIONS

Archaeological Research in Asia offers authors the option to publish papers open access. See the journal homepage for details:
